18 Persons Hurt in 25 Traffic Accidents

7 Injured in One Crash;
3 Cyclists Hurt in 2 Separate Mishaps

Eighteen persons suffered injuries during the weekend, seven of them in one mishap, as 25 traffic accidents were reported in the area. The injured also included two boys riding on the same bicycle and a girl whose motorcycle collided with an auto.

Seven St. Louis county youths were injured in a collision at Route 3 and Chain of Rocks road at 2:15 p.m. Thursday. Autos driven by Thomas O. Bopp, 19, of Florissant, Mo., and James C. Ingold, 16, of Florissant, collided as the southbound Ingold car was making a left turn onto Chain of Rocks road and was struck broadside by Bopp who was headed north on Route 3.

Admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital were Ingold with a brain concussion and a lacerated forehead, Sharon Miller, 15, of Florissant, with a neck injury; Daniel P. Meschan, 15, of Florissant, with a back injury, and Bopp, with a concussion and abrasions to the forehead.

Bopp was alone in his auto. James Meyer, 15, of Florissant, was treated for rib injuries and was released. Others injured were Cathy Danner, 16, of Florissant, and Steve Bopp, 16, of Hazelwood.

Two on Bicycle Hurt
Two boys who were riding on one bicycle were hospitalized Friday when the bike crashed into a parked car at Third street and McCambridge avenue.

Injured were Joseph Thomas, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond O. Thomas, 1681 Fourth street, who suffered a cerebral concussion and contusions and abrasions to his back, abdomen, both arms and left knee, and Gary Robinson, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Robinson, Bend road, who suffered a concussion and deep cuts to both legs.

The mishap occurred at 4:30 p.m. as the boys were riding home from a softball game. They were taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Motorcycle Accident
Susanne Fogle, 19, of 2325 East 25th street, was injured when her motorcycle struck the left rear fender and bumper of an auto driven by Mrs. Violet I. Thurau, 2509 Waterman avenue, who was making a left turn at Madison avenue onto 27th street at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

The cyclist was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital with abrasions to her right leg. The motorcycle was extensively damaged, police said.

Two occupants of an east-bound auto that left Edwardsville road at Nannooki road at 7:35 a.m. Sunday were injured.

Landfill Control Listed in County Zoning Revision

The Zoning and Subdivision Control Committee and Zoning Appeals Board decided following a public hearing Thursday afternoon at the Madison county courthouse to submit a zoning law amendment to the County Board of Supervisors. Stricter control of rural dumps could result.

A resolution of recommendation will be presented by the two groups to the supervisors, whose monthly meeting has been changed from this Wednesday to 9:30 a.m. next Monday, June 26.

Under the present county zoning law, junkyards, landfills and similar dumping areas can be established without specific authority where the zoning is for M-2 or M-3 medium or heavy manufacturing purposes.

The revision being submitted allows such yards only through issuance of special use permits, enabling each proposal to be judged on its merits.

The change would be helpful because in some cases an industry might be suitable for a location but a dump would not be desirable, Howard said.

Zoning Appeals Board chairman, told the Press-Record.

Double Protection
The revision will afford double protection. There will be an opportunity to screen applicants before their operation begins. And those approved must still meet county and state performance and health standards," he explained.

Only citizens appearing to submit comments at the hearing were several salvage yard owners, who were represented by an attorney. They opposed inclusion of salvage areas and landfills under the same category in the zoning ordinance.

Committee and appeals board members present decided to forward the revision as planned in order to obtain greater control over dumps as soon as possible.

Later amendments perhaps could differentiate between types of dumping, they commented.

Five Undergo Surgery At Local Hospital
Those undergoing surgery at St. Elizabeth Hospital since Thursday include:

Sharon Heubner, 22 Westgate; Dorothy Ely, 1601 Kirkpatrick Homes; Betty Christopher, 3507 Johnson road; Larry Webb, 94 Garcesche Homes, Madison; and Clarence Cook of Edwardsville.

$15,000 Still on Deposit

Postal Savings Accounts To be Closed in 10 Days

Granite City citizens who have $15,000 still on deposit in Postal Savings accounts in the post office here were urged by Postmaster W. T. Overbeck today to cash in their certificates within the next ten days or face the necessity of redeeming them through the U.S. Treasury Department.

Overbeck said depositors have only to present their certificates at any window at the post office to receive their money. The certificates stopped receiving 2% interest April 7. The Postal Department announced abandonment of the system because it has become outmoded by banks and savings associations. He said.

One-Way St. System Crackdown This Week

Thoroughfares Posted; Fines for Violators Range from $5 to $100

Enforcement of Granite City's new one-way street system will start this week, it was announced today by Police Chief Ronald Veizer, who said posting of directional signs was completed last week by the street department.

For the present the four-way stop controls still are up at 26th and Benton streets, but the southbound stop is to be removed shortly," the chief added.

"We'll continue to give warnings early this week and then begin issuing arrest tickets to violators," Veizer added.

The new system extends one-way streets to 27th street, while most of the one-way thoroughfares had ended at 24th street.

State Street Southbound
Also, State street now is one-way southbound and Iowa street is one-way northbound. Washington avenue has been changed from northbound to southbound between 22nd and 20th streets. Delmar avenue remains two-way.

Streets directions for the new one-way system are—
Benton street, northbound from 20th to 27th street.
Cleveland blvd., southbound from 27th to 20th street.
Edison avenue, northbound from 18th to 27th street.
State street, southbound from 27th street to Niedringhaus avenue.

Grand avenue, northbound from 18th to 27th street.
Iowa street, northbound from 20th street to Nannooki road.
Washington avenue, southbound from 22nd to 20th street.

Fines for violations can range from $5 to $100.

School Windows Broken
Vandals broke about 15 windows at the Nannooki school, it was reported at 11 p.m. Sunday. Four windows were found open but apparently were left that way. There was no entry.

Madison Offers Reward For Tree Vandal Data
Madison Mayor Stephen A. Maers today offered a $50 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of vandals destroying city trees.

Three sweet gum trees in the 1900 block of Third street were broken by a group of older boys last night, the mayor said, adding that several other trees have been damaged and broken in a vicinity of the Memorial Center and along Market street in recent weeks.

"These are valuable trees that were planted between the sidewalk and curb about five or six years ago, and they are being broken off at the trunk by the vandals. Whoever provides us with information can be assured their names will be held in confidence," the mayor said.

The discussion grew out of complaints received by council members of abandoned or inoperative cars left for long periods in vacant lots.

In some instances cars are parked on the streets, with wheels removed and jacked up on blocks, it was noted.

Fourth Ward Alderman Oscar King outlined one specific complaint in which a Venice resident is attempting to set up a playground and basketball court in a vacant lot, but is encountering difficulty because of old autos parked there.

Procedure Outlined.
Mayor John E. Lee advised the aldermen to instruct all complainants in such cases to appear at police headquarters and provide the names of the owners of the lots, or the owners of the autos.

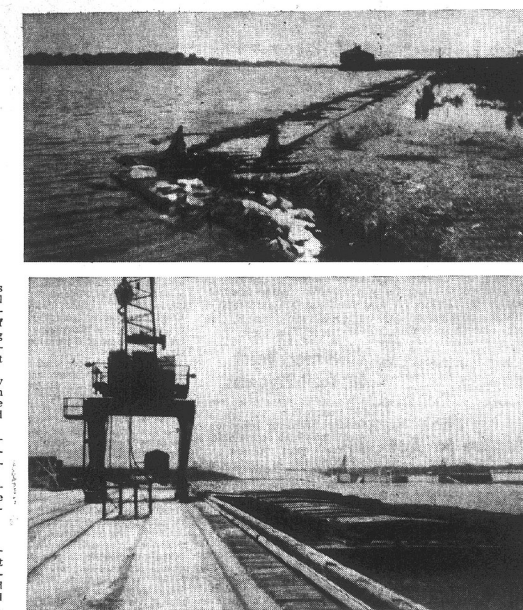

If the owners of the autos can be found, charges for towing in the cars can be assessed against them instead of the city, he pointed.

He said, however, that wherever owners cannot be identified, the city will assume the responsibility and the cost of towing away old cars.

Advises on Law
Hartman said that old cars parked for long periods on city streets, or jacked up without wheels, can be removed under the law without difficulty, but a technical legal point may be involved in going into private property and removing numerous parked autos, he said, this is particularly true in the case of so-called auto repair shops, where cars are parked while work ostensibly is being done on them.

A series of disaster preparedness training programs for federal employees in the St. Louis area will be initiated July 10, Col. Charles E. Hoskins III, Granite City Army Depot commanding officer, announced Friday.

Approximately 100 representatives of federal agencies, including military installations in the two-state metropolitan area, will be invited to attend training courses at the close of an all-day Civil Defense Seminar at the local military installation, Friday.

In making the announcement, Col. Hoskins said, "Each agency within the next few days will be asked to nominate employees for this no-cost series of inter-agency training courses."

"The objective of these courses will be to instruct all employees in implementation of existing disaster preparedness plans of federal building and agency facilities, and to provide necessary training for personal and family survival in the event of major catastrophe."

Hoskins is Vice-Chairman
The local Depot commander serves as vice-chairman of the Federal Executive Board of St. Louis and chairman of the Missouri State Department of Education, coordinators of the principal downtown St. Louis federal buildings and the Inter-Agency Training Office of the St. Louis Region, U. S. Civil Service Commission.

Col. Hoskins urged all agency heads attending Friday's seminar to encourage their employees to participate in the training classes. The sessions will be conducted three hours each day, over a four-day period.

Various phases of disaster control and emergency procedures were discussed by top federal and CD officials during the eight-hour seminar.

Additionally, workshop discussion groups were conducted in the afternoon segment on such topics as: Natural Disaster; Nuclear Attack and Family Shelters.

Venice to Act Against Junked, Abandoned Autos

A growing problem of "junk" automobiles and backyard auto repair shops where large numbers of inoperative cars accumulate was attacked by the Venice city council Friday night in a lengthy discussion. Instructions were given to City Attorney Harry E. Hartman to prepare a city ordinance designed to control the nuisance.

The discussion grew out of complaints received by council members of abandoned or inoperative cars left for long periods in vacant lots.

In some instances cars are parked on the streets, with wheels removed and jacked up on blocks, it was noted.

Fourth Ward Alderman Oscar King outlined one specific complaint in which a Venice resident is attempting to set up a playground and basketball court in a vacant lot, but is encountering difficulty because of old autos parked there.

Byers Boy, 15, Loses Toe in Skiing Mishap

The boy was taken to Skaggs Community Hospital at Branson, Mo., where the toe was amputated, and then was returned to his home in Granite City by a plane flown by his parents.

Mr. Byers said today that no one knows exactly how the injury occurred. She said Richard was water-skiing and fell from his skis. The accident happened about 4:30 p.m. She said her son went to the summer resort for a vacation with several friends Friday.

Four-Day Event
A fireworks display of increased size is planned for the night of the Fourth of July, as the conclusion of the 1967 Independence Day festival in Madison.

Detailed plans for the four-day celebration Saturday, July 1, through Tuesday, July 4, were made Thursday night at a meeting of Madison Amvets Post 264, which will sponsor this year's activities. The Amvets and Madison Lions alternate as sponsors of the yearly event.

City Unsure How Many On Road Right-of-Way Want U. S. Apartments

Authority for the Madison County Housing Authority to apply for a federal grant of not to exceed $30,000 for a survey of the Kerr Island population displacement problem was approved by the Venice city council at a regular meeting Friday night.

The council also adopted a resolution approving cooperative agreements between the city and the housing authority in the planning of housing units to accommodate persons who will be displaced in the Kerr Island area by construction of the Great River Road.

A new tentative budget for operation of the city-owned McKinley Bridge in the 1967-68 fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 was approved during the meeting on the recommendation of Bridge Manager Henry McMullen. The budget now must be approved by New York bonding interests and Hardesty & Hanover, New York, bridge engineers.

The new budget calls for total expenditures of $320,689 during the next fiscal year, an increase of $4000 over the current 1966-67 budget of $316,689.

The housing resolutions approved during the session constitute further steps in a move begun six months ago to provide housing for persons who will be moved off their property in Kerr Island to provide right-of-way for the Route 151 project.

After the council approved a resolution providing that Venice enter into a cooperative agreement with the housing authority for construction of new housing units, Mayor John E. Lee suggested that a letter be sent with the resolution. The letter will point out that Venice "intends to support construction of only enough units to accommodate the persons who will be displaced."

Plans of the housing authority to seek a federal grant for a survey of the area result from the fact that neither the city nor housing officials know for certain how many families and how much of the area result from the state's right-of-way purchase, and how many of these would move into low-rent housing.

The survey will determine these factors and permit development of a housing project in accordance with the need, it is hoped.

To Limit New Units
Mayor Lee has insisted that Venice, in promoting the housing unit, is assuming an undertaking that the state and federal government because they are responsible for the displacement of Kerr Islanders.

Consequently, the city plans to sponsor only a minimum number of units, to accommodate those displaced.

The city originally had considered a project of 100 low-rent units and 100 units for the elderly, but this was vetoed after the Madison school district objected that the location proposed for the units — adjacent to the Lee Wright Homes — is in the Madison school district and that the district could not handle an additional pupil that would move into new housing.

Cities Honor Depot For Youth Programs
Mayors of three cities signed a proclamation honoring the Granite City Army Depot for its role in providing opportunities in the youth corps program.

Participating in ceremonies in the Granite City hall were Col. Charles E. Hoskin III, depot commander, Granite City Mayor Donald Partney, Venice Mayor John E. Lee and Madison Mayor Stephen Maestas.

The proclamation hails the depot in its observance of "Investment in Youth Month" during June. It cites the local military establishment for its leadership in the employment of disadvantaged and needy youths.

One branch of the program the Neighborhood Youth Corps, offers training and job conditioning to high school dropouts. A second branch, the Youth Opportunity Campaign, gives continuing students an opportunity to earn funds for their education.

To Ticket Violators
The Venice aldermen also agreed that ticketing of parked autos, left on streets scheduled under posted notices for cleaning on specific days and periods of the week, should proceed after ample notice is given to the car owners.

The street department has had difficulty in sweeping streets because autos are parked in violation of notices posted as to date and time of sweeping. "statement and notice of accident" from an Alton law firm notifying the city of the time, place and circumstances of the death of Alton Benjamin Cox last Jan. 18. Cox was shot and fatally wounded by a Venice patrolman near the Robin's Nest tavern.

The notice was filed in behalf of Mertha Mae Cox, administratrix of Allen Cox's estate. Hartman told council members that filing of such statements customarily precedes the filing of lawsuits.

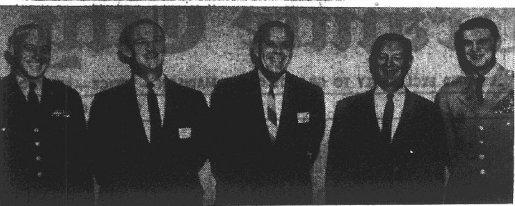

Building Permits
The council approved two building permits, one for Odis and Mary Medley for construction of a six-room brick veneer residence at 531 Mercedia street to cost $15,200, and the other for the Friendship Baptist Church for construction of a frame and block church building at 280 Mercedia street at a cost of $13,500. The church building will contain eight rooms.

The New York Central Railroad notified the city by letter that it plans to begin repair of the Broadway crossing near Main street within the next week. The Terminal Railroad Association notified the city it intends to begin repairs soon on the crossing at Market and State streets.

CIVIL DEFENSE SEMINAR held Friday at the Granite City Army Depot for the two-state metropolitan area to improve techniques and training procedures. Leaders in the workshops were, left to right, Brig. Gen. Edwin I. Donley, commander of the U.S. Army Mobility Equipment Command, St. Louis; William H. Jewell, chief of Administration Services Division, Kansas City; Clarence L. Webster, self-protection coordinator, Military Personnel Record Center, Overland, Mo.; Robert D. Hubbard, Region Six, Denver Federal Records Center; and the host, Col. Charles E. Hoskin III, Depot commander, who is vice-chairman of the executive board and civil defense subcommittee chairman.

VENICE SCHOOL'S RECREATION PROGRAM STARTS AT LEE PARK

The Venice public schools began its summer recreation program for children, ages six to 16 years, this morning in Lee Park, Venice. Registration will continue this week, enabling additional Venice youngsters wishing to participate, to enroll in the daily program.

Activities will include arts and crafts, stories and games, baseball-boys, softball-girls, tennis, miniature golf, badminton, volleyball and horseshoes. Golf driving cages also will be available.

John O. Pier, Venice superintendent of schools, said today that proper supervision is being provided throughout the six-week program.

Logomarcino to Head Center for Alcoholics
Paul Logomarcino, psychiatric social worker at Alton State Hospital, has been named administrator and coordinator of the Alton State Hospital's new Alcoholic Treatment Center, it was announced today. The program serves hospitalized patients and also involves persons residing in the community who are in need of intensive treatment for alcoholism.

Three Charges Filled
Alvin A. Potts, 21, of 2201 N. Main St. was charged with 4 a.m. Sunday at 17th and Madison avenue with driving in the wrong traffic lane and also was charged with driving while intoxicated. He was released on $125 bond pending a hearing.

Community Involvement
Dick Clark has accepted a seminar for doctors, ministers and civic organizations, and general education of the public on the treatment of alcoholism.

Workshop Participants
Recommended compilation and publication of a guide, listing location of equipment, supplies and manpower available to local authorities in emergencies.

Guide to be Published
It was stressed that most municipal and county supervisory officials presently are unaware of the type, quantity and procedure for acquiring emergency items from federal agencies. Publication of such an outline could result in immediate notification to agencies when assistance is required and dissemination of equipment and manpower to a stricken area with a minimum of lost time, group members stated.

Early Morning Arrests
Charges of profanity, curfew violation and resisting an officer were lodged at 2:15 a.m. Saturday in the 2400 block of Iowa street against Robert White, 17, of 2334 Grand avenue. Police charged Everett L. Caultle, 63, of 2531 Madison avenue with illegal transportation of liquor in the 2400 block of Iowa street at 2:25 a.m. Saturday.

Study GMAO Sewage
A copy of a letter also was presented, announcing that the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad has begun an engineering study of the flow of "shop waters" from the GMAO shop at Venice into Venice sewers.

The letter was sent by S. A. Cooper, chief engineer of the railroad, to C. W. Klassen, technical secretary of the Illinois State Sanitary Water Board.

Objection to use of Venice sewer lines was made by the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, which claimed the type of waste entering the lines cannot be handled by the Landowne sewage treatment plant.

Hit-Run Collision
A hit-and-run car damaged the left rear of the parked auto of Agnes Douglas, 2608 Porchman Blvd., at that address at 9 p.m. Saturday.

McMullen said an item for bridge and buildings in the maintenance account, fixed at $7000 in the new budget, is an increase of $500 over the 1966-67 budget item.

Other increases include $2000 in the $85,000 item for Missouri taxes, and $1900 in the $11,000 item for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund.

McMullen said these are the only increases in the budget, with all other items and accounts identical to those of this year's budget. The bridge administration's fiscal year ends Sept. 30.

The budget provides salary items of $64,548 in the operating expense account, $15,788 in the maintenance account and $41,285 in the general and administrative account.

Maryville Road Crash
A collision at 8:15 p.m. Saturday at Maryville road and Redwood lane damaged the autos of Goldie E. Hozian, 2933 Warren avenue, whose passengers were five youngsters aged four to nine, and Ricky Fiedler, 4916 Redwood lane. State police said the Fiedler car had entered Maryville road from Redwood.

$50,000 SIU-SW Suit by Construction Worker

A $50,000 injury suit has been filed in the circuit court against the SIU board of trustees and Holmuth, Obata and Kassabaum, architectural firm for the SIU-SW campus.

He says he suffered injuries to his neck, back and body in an accident on an unfinished stairway in the university center. Bernhardt, who was employed by Frain-Colton Contracting Co., general contractor for the building, asked $50,000 for injuries, loss of employment and medical expenses.

County Wheat Crop At Harvest Stage

Wheat ripened rapidly the past few days and is at harvest stage, and yield prospects here are good, it was reported today by Warren Bundy, county farm adviser.

Yields in some fields will be low due to diseases. About 25 such fields have been checked by the farm adviser upon request of farmers. Diseases are more prevalent in fields where the wheat was planted about Sept. 25 than in later planted fields.

Development of Hessian fly resistant varieties and insecticides in recent years have made it possible to plant wheat earlier than the so-called fly-free dates of Oct. 7 to 9. Plant pathologists have observed more wheat disease problems in early planted wheat.

Weapon Charge Filed

Carl Smith, 24, of 2313 East 23rd street, was arrested at 8 p.m. Sunday on a charge of unlawful use of a weapon after police received a disturbance call at the Club Delmar, 1832 Delmar avenue. He was taken into custody on the tavern parking lot after a gun was found under his auto. Police said it involved a family dispute.

Wheat Looks Good

Wheat looks good throughout Madison county. Yields this year should be as high as last year's county average of 38 bushels per acre.

One potential threat to wheat is armyworms. Extension Entomologist Steve Moore has found small armyworms in wheat fields here. Most worms were one-sixteenth inch long — very hard to find, but present in sufficient number to represent a potential threat. He found a few worms between one-half and one-inch long, but he said generally it is too early to treat.

To find armyworms, examine lodged spots or the thick, rank areas first. Shake the plants vigorously, and look on the ground for the worms. If small striped worms are present, use this count as a field average.

If you find no armyworms in these spots, no further examination is necessary. If you find lots of them, make several additional counts over the entire field. No control is needed unless the population averages six or more per linear foot. Even then, do not apply insecticides until most of the worms are over one-half inch long.

If treatment is needed, apply 1½ pounds per acre of toxaphene for armyworm control in small grains. There are no restrictions on use of grain. Do not feed the straw to dairy animals or livestock fattening for slaughter. Do not contaminate fish-bearing waters with toxaphene.

We suggest that dairy farmers do not use chlorinated hydrocarbons on their farms. Toxaphene belongs to this group of chemicals. However, the official label permits its use on dairy farms, if it is used on or adjacent to dairy farms, avoid drift onto pastures and hay crops.

Carbaryl (Sevin), one pound per acre, may be applied to fields adjacent to dairy pastures, but not after the heads have begun to appear. Almost all of the wheat has headed. Use carbaryl on grass pastures or hay fields if armyworms are extremely abundant. But warn area beekeepers that you are applying carbaryl. Trichlorfon (Dylox), an organo-phosphate insecticide, may be used at ¾ pound per

Parked Car Damaged

A parked car owned by Maurice Williams, 154 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, and a car driven by Jessie Whorton, 302 Allen street, Eagle Park Acres, were damaged at 136 Broadway at 6 p.m. Saturday, Venice police reported. Williams' parked car was struck in the left rear by Whorton's auto which was damaged at the right front.

One Radar Arrest

Betty A. Mayfield, 2401 Madison avenue, was charged with speeding at 4:18 p.m. Thursday in the 2200 block of Grand avenue where police operated a radar unit.

Shots Damage Window

acre to within 21 days of harvest, but the straw should not be used for livestock feed.

Wheat diseases are present in varying degrees in many wheat fields throughout Madison county. Septoria (dying of lower leaves) is very prevalent. Wheat streak, yellow dwarf, and powdery mildew are common in several fields. Scattered, spotty areas can be found where wheat roots and a portion of the stem have rotted.

Nothing can be done now to control any wheat diseases now present. Crop rotation, seed treatment, destroying volunteer wheat in late summer, use of resistant varieties, and planting wheat as late as practical are suggested control measures. Measures for complete control of all wheat diseases are not known.

Wheat variety demonstration plots are located on two farms in Madison county. These plots are open for public viewing at any time.

One set of plots is on the Vernon Keller farm located on the west end of Route 137 three-fourths mile south of Interstate 270.

Other plots are on land adjacent to the Bergmann-Talor Seed House in St. Jacob township.

Plots include the soft wheat varieties Monon, Knox 62, Vermillion, Rile, Benhur, Stadler, and hard wheat varieties Ottawa, Gage, Pawnee, Triumph and Scout. Signs were placed in these plots last week to identify each variety. Stop and compare varieties any time at your convenience.

Several farmers have asked about the effect of lodging on yield of wheat.

Illinois Agronomists John Pendleton and R. O. Weibel report the earlier the lodging, the greater the yield reduction. When compared to erect plants reductions in yield due to lodging were as follows: At heading, 31%; at milk stage, 29%; at soft-dough stage, 20%; and at hard-dough stage, 12%. Lodging also lowers weight per bushel and interferes with normal harvest procedures.

Await U.S. Job Ruling

A decision is expected early this week from the Chicago regional office of the U. S. Bureau of Work Programs on a proposed $500,000 "new careers" program under which jobs would be provided for 125 unemployed and derelinked in Madison and St. Clair counties for a 44-week period beginning in July.

Injured at Work

Frank Orris, 59, of 1223 Meridian street, a patternmaker at General Steel Industries, was given emergency treatment at St. Elizabeth Hospital Friday afternoon for cuts to two fingers of his right hand, suffered when a drill slipped as he was working on a pattern.

Serving of Cherry Point

Marine L/Cpl. Herman Smith jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Smith sr., 201 Terry street, is in Cherry Point, N. C., serving with Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 313, a unit of the Second Marine Aircraft Wing, based at the U. S. Marine Corps Air Station.

Fudge Sundae Pie belongs in the category of do-it-ahead dishes to be loved by hostesses. But it has much more than that alone to recommend it. Family or guests will be delighted with this frozen concoction for it is highlighted by a chocolate-rich sauce that oves its especially smooth character to miniature marshmallows. Additional good news for the cook — there's no fussing with candy thermometers or carefully boiling to a specific stage; the only thing necessary for the sauce is to combine the milk, semi-sweet chocolate and the marshmallows and cook, stirring over medium heat until blended and thick.

Fudge Sundae Pie

1 cup evaporated milk ¼ teaspoon salt
1 6-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate pieces 1 vanilla wafer
1 cup miniature marshmallows 1 qt. vanilla ice cream
Pecan halves

Combine milk, chocolate, marshmallows and salt. Stir over medium heat until marshmallows and chocolate melt and mixture thickens; cool. Line bottom and sides of a 9-inch plate (or two 1-quart refrigerator trays) with vanilla wafers. Fill with half of ice cream; cover with half the chocolate sauce. Repeat layers, garnish with pecans. Freeze.

N-S Street Planning Now 24th to Manley

Members of the City Plan Commission and property owners along the right-of-way of the proposed north-south street on the east side of the Wabash railroad tracks from 24th street to Manley avenue discussed the proposal in a meeting at city hall Friday afternoon, but took no action pending another meeting to be held in about two weeks.

Attending the session were William Hoelscher, chairman of the plan commission; Mayor Donald Partney; Theodore Mikesell, director of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission; Frank Brown of the Illinois State Highway Department; Paul Rutledge, chairman of the city council's Planning and Zoning committee; Alderman R. E. Robertson of the Seventh Ward; Freeman Wolfe, Granite City contractor; M. G. Reinhardt and Jerry Kent of the Reinhardt Real Estate Agency; Henry Lueders and James Henderson of the Lueders Agency, and James Stewart of Research, Planning & Design Associates, St. Louis.

The desirability and general route of the street was discussed. The north-south street was proposed two years ago by Alderman Robertson as a plan to relieve congestion on other north-south streets. The state highway department has objected to the plan in the past.

NEW FREEDOM SHARES

What are they? Who may buy them?

Americans have put their savings to work for freedom through U.S. Savings Bonds for many years. New Freedom Shares do the same job . . . plus. Read how.

Freedom Shares are U.S. Savings Notes. They pay a higher return than Savings Bonds, 4.74% when held to maturity. And they mature in just four-and-a-half years.

For regular Bond buyers only

These new Freedom Shares—which are not redeemable for the first year—are offered on a one-for-one basis with E Bonds, but only to people who belong to the Payroll Savings Plan where they work or the Bond-a-Month Plan where they bank.

There are four denominations of Freedom Shares, each of which may be paired with a Series E Bond of the same or larger denomination, as a "package." For instance, for $39 total, you can purchase a Savings Bond that matures at $25 and a Freedom Share that matures at $25.

America needs your help

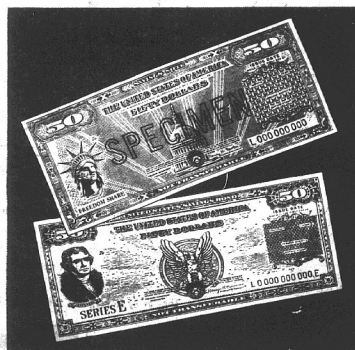

When you buy Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares you do an important job for freedom, backing our men in Vietnam and helping to keep the country economically strong. The need is urgent. What you do counts.

Sign up

Tell your supervisor or the Payroll Department where you work (or any officer where you bank) that you'd like to join a Bond purchase plan. Decide how much you'll save . . . whether you want Freedom Shares as well as Bonds . . .

Area Police Urge Public To Help Cut Burglaries

Residents of the Quad-City area can help cut down the number of burglaries and reduce losses by theft by practicing a few simple home protection precautions, police authorities of the area said today in opening observance of "Burglary Prevention Week."

Mayors Donald Partney of Granite City, John E. Lee of Venice, Stephen Maeras of Madison and Thomas Staloff of Pontoon Beach Village have declared this week as Burglary Prevention Week and announced the area police authorities will make special efforts to inform the public of methods to protect homes from burglars. Cooperation is needed, particularly during the summer when many families leave their houses for vacation trips or weekend outings.

Area police chiefs, Ronald Veizer of Granite City, Frank DeWitt of Venice and Emmett Pavia of Madison, joined in a statement pointing out that failure to know and practice fundamental techniques of home protection is largely responsible for the usual surge of burglaries during summer months.

"Most people don't intentionally invite burglars to ransack their homes," they said, "but they might as well hang up the sign saying that no one is home and burglars are welcome."

Can Spot Empty Homes?

They pointed out that it isn't difficult for anyone to spot a home where the family is away. The porch usually is cluttered with circulars and an accumulation of milk bottles, an uncut lawn, an empty garage with the doors open, or a bulging mailbox. Most empty homes can be spotted at night because they are dark, or the same light is burning repeatedly.

The officials recommended use of timing devices to turn several lights off and on during the evening to give the impression someone is home, adding that it is an established fact that light is one of the most deterrents to crime.

The chiefs said that most burglars pick the easiest targets they can find so that they can get in, get the loot and get away as quickly as possible. By putting obstacles in his way he is less likely to break in.

Close, Lock Doors

Among steps recommended by police is to close and lock all doors, including porch, basement and garage, using pin-tumbler cylinder locks on outside entrances and safety catches on the windows; connect lamps to automatic timers to turn lights on and off during the evening; turn on outside lights, by timer control if preferred, to increase the chance that a burglar might be seen; fasten screens from the inside.

Valuables should never be left lying around or kept in the house, and residents planning to be away longer than the weekend should notify the police department when they are leaving and how long they expect to be away.

The officials said vacationers should cancel all deliveries of newspapers. Arrangements with a neighbor or the post office to hold all mail also should be made, they said, as well as having a friend mow the lawn and pick up all circulars or handbills left on the porch.

Marine Giebe Takes Part In 36-Day Battle

Marine Pfc Richard J. Giebe, son of Mrs. Doris E. Giebe of 2108 East 24th street, took part in fighting south of Da Nang, Vietnam during "Operation Union," while serving with the Third Battalion, Fifth Marine Regiment, First Marine Division. The operation is considered by Marines as one of the largest and most successful military operations in the Vietnam conflict. During the 36-day multi-battalion operation, the Leathernecks accounted for more than 850 enemy killed. While in Vietnam, his regiment forms the ground element of the Marine Corps air-ground team, and conducts large-scale search and destroy operations against the enemy in South Vietnam.

IRS Exam to Represent Taxpayers Sept. 25, 26

A special enrollment examination for accountants and others who wish to represent taxpayers in matters before the Internal Revenue Service will be given Sept. 25 and 26, Jay G. Philpott, district director for central and southern Illinois, announced today.

An enrollment fee of $25 to cover the cost of administering the exam is required when the application is filed.

Build Storage Sites For Heavy Equipment

The East Side Levee and Sanitary District has begun construction of five fenced storage areas to protect heavy moving equipment and to save time moving the equipment from the district garage to each job.

Chief engineer A. L. Kroeber said considerable time is required to move tractors, mowers and other equipment to work sites and the fenced areas will permit leaving the equipment on the job site. It also will eliminate the hiring of watchmen.

Cyclone fences with locked gates are being built at Harding ditch north of State street, the East St. Louis pumping station, at Harding ditch near Rock Spring road, near the Cahokia sewage treatment plant and at the district's south pump station in Centerville township.

Venice Borrows Again From Underpass Fund

The city of Venice borrowed another $50,000 from its McKinley Bridge escrow fund during May to help meet payment of current expenses, according to a report filed with the city council Friday night.

The fund transfer brings to $95,000 the amount of money transferred from the McKinley Bridge fund to the general fund in recent months. The money will be repaid as soon as tax collections become available.

The fund from which the money was transferred is an escrow account of $450,000 which has been placed in reserve to finance the city's share of the Broadway underpass project.

The $50,000 transfer brought the city's income to $58,463 which, with a previous balance of $26,445, gave the city total receipts of $84,908 for May. Disbursements totaled $32,932, leaving a cash balance of $51,976 as of June 1.

Percy Seeks to Speed Social Security Pay

Sen. Charles H. Percy on Friday in Washington announced his sponsorship of a bill to provide immediate payment of delayed Social Security benefits.

He criticized "red tape" which delays payment to those who have little or no support other than Social Security benefits.

The bill, an amendment to Title II of the Social Security Act, will provide temporary benefits in Social Security cases where claims for regular monthly benefits have been delayed or suspended.

The amendment will allow local Social Security supervisors to authorize immediate payment of temporary benefits for a period of up to 60 days.

Persons making initial application for Social Security benefits and those whose established benefits have been interrupted as a result of clerical errors and administrative technicalities would be covered.

"Most Social Security recipients are elderly people who have little or no recourse for support but Social Security benefits are dependent on the regular receipt of these checks. Others are families who are struggling against insurmountable odds with the loss of their breadwinner. Social Security was instituted to assist just such individuals, but in an overwhelming number of cases it cannot and does not help when it is most needed."

Youth, 19, Gets Year In Police Auto Chase

Calvin L. Stevenson, 19, of 2034 Alton avenue, was sentenced to a year on the state prison farm Thursday by Magistrate Mateosian on a charge of driving without a license after he was found to be the Madison county jury on an auto theft charge.

He waived preliminary hearings. Ten other traffic charges were dismissed, and another charge of resisting a police officer, to which Stevenson pleaded not guilty, was dismissed with leave to re-instate.

Judge Mateosian said it was the third time in six months that Stevenson was arrested for driving without a license.

Stevenson and a companion, Clarence Andrew Holt, 19, of 1733 Collinsville avenue, Madison, were arrested in a stolen auto early last Monday following a chase by patrolmen which led from Granite City to the Collinsville area.

Holt also had been charged with auto theft, but he was given a year's probation on a reduced charge of criminal trespass to a motor vehicle.

The stolen auto was owned by Warren Taylor, 4210 Kirkpatrick Homes.

Mixed Emotions for Lincoln at Vandalia

A writer once called Vandalia "the town that never forgave Abraham Lincoln." He said that residents of the historic little city in Fayette county still feel that if Lincoln had been on their side, the state capital would never have been moved to Springfield.

This might have been the sentiment when the Legislative Commission of which Lincoln was an influential member decided in 1839 that a more centrally located capital city might better serve the entire state.

But then and today, Vandalia loved Lincoln as does the world. Right now a determined group of historians are seeking to preserve and restore several buildings that figured in early Illinois politics and the life of Lincoln.

A Crucial Vote
Some of the old timers, however, still recount that black day in Vandalia when it is said a crucial vote was to be taken in the House of Representatives on whether to move to Springfield or stay where they were.

They say that Abe looked around and feared for passage of the bill to move—and which he supported—so he swung his legs up and over a window and exited the House chamber to upset the quorum.

If this is a true story and if the House chamber was on the second floor (as it has been restored) this would have been quite a step, even for the long-legged rail splitter who was to become the 16th President of the United States.

The stately old Capitol building, as it now stands, can be called, justly, one of the loveliest restored Illinois buildings. Its central stairway is an elegant reminder of the gracious past. Maroon-colored draperies hang from every window. Former offices of state officials have been re-created just as they once were. Upstairs are the chambers of the House and Senate with the Governor's office in between.

3rd Capitol Building
This is the third building that served as the capitol during Vandalia's reign. The first was a two-story log structure, 30 by 40 feet. Official state papers and documents were hauled to it from Kaskaskia in horse-drawn wagons. It was destroyed by fire in 1823 and a second building, this time a two-story brick, was soon erected.

When talk of moving the capitol to Springfield began in 1837, Vandalia townspeople quickly erected a new, unadorned State House in an effort to keep their place as the state's "First City." It cost $16,000 and is the present building, now fully restored.

On the corner of the old Capitol building lawn, a unique statuary makes all visitors stop and look. It is called "The Madonna of the Trail" and shows a pioneer, sun-bonneted mother with one child holding on to her dress at her knee and an infant in her arms. A tribute to the wagon train women who helped make the U.S.A., it was dedicated in 1928 as a gift to Illinois and the nation from the Daughters of the American Revolution. It is one of a 12-state series marking the old national trails.

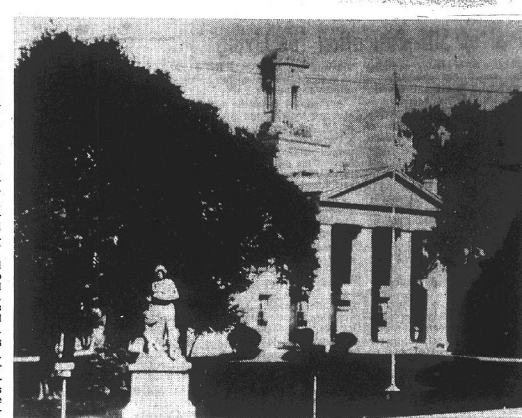

Western Terminus

Vandalia was the western terminus of what was then known as the Cumberland Road.

It extended 80 feet wide and ran 391 miles from Cumberland, Md., through Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. It was begun by the federal government in 1811, stopped in 1833 with the approaching cost about seven million dollars.

Bronze markers have been placed at 15 historical sites in the Vandalia area. Deer Spring, where Lincoln often went for quiet meditation, is privately owned but is open to the public. An early brick home offers a library and gift shop surrounded by primitive Midwest furnishings.

Any visit to Vandalia should conclude with a quiet visit to the first official state burial ground at Old State Cemetery. Here are buried four members of the legislature and several state officials who died in office. An appropriate monument stands in adjoining South Hill cemetery. Vandalia and its environs offer excellent hotel and motel accommodations and its restaurants specialize in home-cooked type of meals. For further information on Vandalia and the area known as "Expedition Land," write Box 566, Belleville.

ONE OF THE FINEST RESTORED BUILDINGS in Illinois, the Vandalia State House, and "The Madonna of the Trail" statue stand as tributes to the pioneers who carved a civilization in an often wild and hostile land. Open to the public, this building is decorated and furnished in the same manner as when Abraham Lincoln served on the Legislative Commission.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Beware of Some Pesticides

Finding trace residues of pesticides in soybeans, the Illinois Natural History Survey entomologists are now recommending that use of chlorinated hydrocarbons be discontinued on soybean fields both as plant foliage sprays and soil treatment. This includes sprays such as aldrin and heptachlor.

Several research studies in progress in cooperation with the Illinois Department of Public Health, are concerned with residues in water and foods. Water reservoirs and public water systems of 18 Illinois municipalities were tested in recent months and so far no significant insecticide contamination has been found.

Analysis of fish, milk, meat and other food samples tested to date showed traces of DDT and other pesticides, but not in sufficient quantities to be considered a health hazard.

Goal of SIU-Education for Living

(First of a series outlining the views on education of Southern Illinois University President Morris, based on an interview by Paul M. Angle, noted historian and author of "A Master Builder" and "The People of the People")

Delyte W. Morris is a dynamic and controversial figure in American education, widely quoted for his viewpoint and particularly as "a master builder of higher education" and "an educational empire builder."

As president of SIU, Dr. Morris has shown a talent for making large plans—and pushing them through to completion.

Starting with a square-block Carbondale campus in 1948, he directed SIU's expansion to today's $300-million complex serving over 25,000 students from all over the state, the country and the world, including a second campus, SIU-SW, and residential centers at Alton and East St. Louis.

Born and reared in southern Illinois, Dr. Morris has been a teacher and educator for almost forty years.

He is against the "ivory tower" view of higher education. He feels that a university must be geared to serve all the people in its area with "education for living"—including helping communities help themselves toward economic and cultural betterment.

The Paul Angle-Delyte Morris discussion follows.

Angle: I'd like to ask you, first, if you are willing to define the term "education?"

Morris: You can approach education as a process or as an accomplishment. I approach it as an accomplishment.

In the latter case, you are speaking of what happens to the individual. For instance, education as an accomplishment would be implied in the terms "an educated man" or "a well educated man" or "a poorly educated man."

You can see these modifiers, but I like to think of education as a process—a process by which we use every means now at our command, and any new ones which we can develop from time to time, to help people reach the limit of their own capacities, to realize their own potential.

This may be the potential of becoming a great musician, or a poor one, or becoming a writer or an artist.

It may simply be becoming a person who understands better than anyone else the nature of human beings and how to live with them, or the way the world works and how to work with it.

The simple, most obvious characteristic of a simple, I suppose, is the almost infinite differences that you find among them.

There's never been one person just like another, and so you have to define what you are trying to do in education in terms of what a given person is able to do and what his limits are.

Then you are limited in the accomplishment of your job, both by your own capacity as an educator, and by the individual's desire to be educated. That would be a definition looking inside out from the individual.

I suppose that what we mean when we think of what happens to a person by way of his learning processes—both in the abstract and in the development of skills and techniques—is what happens to him from the time he is born until he dies, as he grows as an individual through the development of his intellect and any special talents he has which may add to the accomplishment of mankind.

Angle: I think you have handled a rather hard question very well. I wish you would evaluate the process that you consider to be the importance of education, by either your definitions, in the world of the present and of the future.

Morris: Let me take the second one first: Let's think of what happens to individuals by way of each person developing to his own capabilities.

Any society would be a richer, stronger society—and any person within that society would have a richer and fuller life if each person were developed to the limit of his own capacity, rather than just running, as it were, half-blind.

For instance, a town would be a better town if it had the creative, intellectual talent of all its residents developed fully.

Illinois would be a better state if all of its citizens realized to the utmost limit their own capabilities.

Our nation would be a stronger and fuller nation, and the world would be a better place in which to live, if persons, instead of growing only to half mast of their abilities, would become fully functioning human beings.

happens to individuals by way of each person developing to his own capabilities.

Illinois would be a better state if all of its citizens realized to the utmost limit their own capabilities.

Our nation would be a stronger and fuller nation, and the world would be a better place in which to live, if persons, instead of growing only to half mast of their abilities, would become fully functioning human beings.

In the transition from the Middle Ages to the Renaissance, we saw a major shift in the broad base of society. We saw a large social segment of people lifting themselves from one level of development of their capabilities to another.

They didn't get better brains between one century and the next—they simply used them more fully. This made change which is still one of the bright marks in the history of mankind.

Now in terms of the educational process, the resulting change in people is really the utilitarian base of formal education.

At the colleges, our high schools and our elementary schools are not ends in themselves but have value only as they relate to what happens to people—people individually and people collectively.

Morris: Granting that the realization of talent and intellectual growth in individuals is advantageous to society, we still must say that all the university can do is to encourage the process.

A good university does achieve certain things. It adds momentum to individual development, talent, bringing together persons who have special interests, special talents and unusual capabilities to realize their own potential.

This may be the potential of becoming a great musician, or a poor one, or becoming a writer or an artist.

It may simply be becoming a person who understands better than anyone else the nature of human beings and how to live with them, or the way the world works and how to work with it.

The simple, most obvious characteristic of a simple, I suppose, is the almost infinite differences that you find among them.

There's never been one person just like another, and so you have to define what you are trying to do in education in terms of what a given person is able to do and what his limits are.

Then you are limited in the accomplishment of your job, both by your own capacity as an educator, and by the individual's desire to be educated. That would be a definition looking inside out from the individual.

I suppose that what we mean when we think of what happens to a person by way of his learning processes—both in the abstract and in the development of skills and techniques—is what happens to him from the time he is born until he dies, as he grows as an individual through the development of his intellect and any special talents he has which may add to the accomplishment of mankind.

Angle: I think you have handled a rather hard question very well. I wish you would evaluate the process that you consider to be the importance of education, by either your definitions, in the world of the present and of the future.

Morris: Let me take the second one first: Let's think of what happens to individuals by way of each person developing to his own capabilities.

Any society would be a richer, stronger society—and any person within that society would have a richer and fuller life if each person were developed to the limit of his own capacity, rather than just running, as it were, half-blind.

For instance, a town would be a better town if it had the creative, intellectual talent of all its residents developed fully.

Illinois would be a better state if all of its citizens realized to the utmost limit their own capabilities.

Our nation would be a stronger and fuller nation, and the world would be a better place in which to live, if persons, instead of growing only to half mast of their abilities, would become fully functioning human beings.

In the transition from the Middle Ages to the Renaissance, we saw a major shift in the broad base of society. We saw a large social segment of people lifting themselves from one level of development of their capabilities to another.

They didn't get better brains between one century and the next—they simply used them more fully. This made change which is still one of the bright marks in the history of mankind.

County Board Action Wednesday Can Give It Badly Needed Authority Over Landfills

The Madison County Board of Supervisors will have an opportunity Wednesday to strengthen its jurisdiction over the location and number of future junkyards, dumps and landfills. This can be done by approving the zoning law amendment that was the subject of a public hearing June 15.

Under present regulations, manufacturing districts can be utilized automatically as dumping areas, giving the county insufficient control. This could lead to a scrap yard being created in an area where it would retard industrial development on adjacent property.

Where landfills need to be established, authorization can be given through issuance of special use permits, with each such application judged on its own merits. This is a reasonable and needed procedure that can be achieved through adoption of the proposed amendment.

The weather bureau should have a non-prophet agency charter.

Fair Play Requires That Missouri Bridge Tax Be Cut to a Minimum

Madison officials deserve strong support in their current effort to get an $800,000 assessment on the city-owned Chain of Rocks Bridge reduced by the Missouri Tax Commission.

The bridge properly paid for its access to Missouri during the quarter century in which tolls were collected. Now it has become toll free, and its owners are keeping it open at a financial loss for the benefit of those Missourians and Illinoisans who find it more convenient than the wider federal bridge upstream.

They stand ready and willing to increase the present level of service if traffic increases or if the huge steel structure could serve the two states in some other fashion.

It seems only fair that the Missouri property tax now be cut to a minimum or eliminated completely, particularly since dismantling would cost ten times the estimated scrap value of the bridge.

Usually when someone says, "Well, to make a long story short . . . it's too late."

Jewish Soviet Citizens in Danger of Cultural, Spiritual Extinction

(U. S. Department of State)

The enclosed resolution condemns the persecution by the Soviet Union of its 3,000,000 Jewish citizens.

It protests in the strongest possible terms is made, there is evidence to believe that a great world tragedy can be averted.

Unless the conscience of the world is aroused, the Jews who reside in the U.S.S.R. are in danger of cultural and spiritual extinction.

You are urged to use the great powers of your office to appeal to the Soviet government for a drastic change of its present policies.

Dear Mr. P.: The highest officials of the United States government have not hesitated to express their concern over the plight of the Jewish community in the Soviet Union.

Unfortunately, the U. S. Government is limited in its ability to take direct actions to improve the lot of Soviet Jews.

Hard as Granite? Rock Broken, Crumbled by Laser Beam in 30 Seconds

(American Institute of Physics)

Two undergraduates at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., have found that a laser beam can be used to bore through hard rock.

Robert A. Gladstone and Anthony Kottaneh, both sophomores, undertook this research in a laboratory course in the MIT Civil Engineering Department.

The approval of their professors, the two students got in touch with the Raytheon Research Laboratory, Woburn, Mass. They arranged to use Raytheon's powerful one-kilowatt continuous gas laser in their project.

Numerous Unsound Proposals Among Those Filling Legislative Hopper

Some of the soundest actions in any legislative meeting are the decisions not to enact various proposals, and the 1967 Illinois session has been no exception.

Bills rejected so far range from the well thought out but possibly unwise, such as employment loyalty oath repeal and compulsory school attendance until age 18, to the ridiculous, such as requiring credit cards to show a warning that their unlimited use "may be injurious to one's economic health."

Other legislation sidetracked this spring has included abolition of the death penalty, elimination of local housing authorities and creation of the office of "ombudsman." Such a state official perhaps could "assist the average citizen lost in the maze of big government," but an ombudsman's staff would be costly and there is no need for it if other elected, appointed and hired personnel do their part in advising residents seeking services or information.

General Assembly should move slowly in mandatory vehicle inspection. Most obvious reason to mark this month is that new federal traffic safety regulations will not be announced until July 1; the necessity to comply with them has been the principal argument given for state action.

Obviously, autos in better working condition could contribute to safer motoring. But the procedural rules for inspectors and garages will need to be carefully drafted to avoid the fraudulent practices that have occurred in some states. Such careful preparation seems unlikely in the hectic closing days of the session.

Legislators have been too negative in some instances. Bills which come to mind that should have been approved but instead were killed include a reduction of the excessive volume of state patronage, and establishment of guidelines for county board reappointment.

The pace becomes so swift at this point in the Jan. 1-30 Springfield deliberations that it becomes difficult for taxpayers to keep track of the volume of bills coming before the state to their senator and representatives. But it is certain that the list of rejections as well as approvals will provide them with some reasons to applaud.

Many Summer Drownings Could Be Avoided

A tragic toll of deaths from drowning is recorded each year, and the tragedy is heightened by the fact that many could be prevented. Most of the victims are capable swimmers who overestimate their ability or endurance, or who disregard fundamental safety rules.

Authorities are convinced that loss of life during the summer sports season could be reduced sharply if more people learned to swim, more studied lifesaving techniques, and all who go near the water exercised greater care.

In view of the outstanding aquatic programs sponsored by the Red Cross, YMCA, Granite City park district and local private pools, the Quad-Cities have the potential to go through the remainder of 1967 with no further drownings, as has been the case in some but not enough of the recent years. It is up to each individual citizen to help in the local boating, fishing and swimming safety record.

Plans for the future do not envisage a radical departure from past practices.

They do, of necessity, contemplate a more selective choice of documents to be printed, and an effort to keep the number of volumes for each year within a reasonable limit of six or seven by each year.

The volumes are prepared by the basic mechanisms of historians who comprise the "Foreign Relations Division" of the Historical Office.

Nearly all of them have had advanced training in diplomatic history, and the criteria for employment do not differ essentially from those of a recognized college or university.

Every one takes for granted that the Illinois Building Authority will be asked to issue bonds for something over $100 million in the next two years for university buildings and other state needs.

All of this means more state indebtedness, and more money spent on interest rather than on goods and services.

The toll highway program is a good example.

We have a scheme of building the highways with 10% state money and 90% federal money and making the highways free of tolls, or we can make them toll roads and roughly double the eventual cost because of interest, and paying employees to take tolls and provide other services.

Idle Schools Waste Equipment, Buildings, People, Valuable Time

(Belleville News-Democrat)

There was something wrong with that elementary school; it appeared lifeless, though it was a time of day when it should have been humming.

The mastery was puzzled for a moment until he remembered: school's out.

Between now and September a building that normally thrums with purposeful energy will sit dormant, with only custodial and repair work to indicate that it is not quite dead.

Think of that building as symbolic of thousands scattered across the nation.

Some 100 of those thousands will be used to some extent for summer classes and other activities, but for the most part public school buildings will not function during the three months ahead.

The economic waste in this season of allowing a huge public investment in physical plant and equipment to stand idle for one-fourth of the year is imposing.

An enormous waste of time, and of educational skills, also is involved.

Thousands of teachers are turned loose—some, indeed, to continue their own education or to recharge mental and spiritual batteries through constructive leisure.

But many work at far less important jobs than teaching just to make ends meet.

Meanwhile, an army of children who would profit by at least part-time summer program of instruction spend months without any systematic learning experience.

It is argued that both teachers and pupils need a vacation. Granted. The point at issue is whether they need three months of it, simply because that was the pattern set generations ago in an agrarian society.

Modifying this tradition in some way by a system of staggered vacations, say—would make far better use of school facilities and personnel.

And it would step up the educational process for children who must learn more than any previous generation.

It is possible that more contracts will be given at the National Stock Yards. The awards this week were by Capt. J. H. Burroughs of the Quartermaster's Department at Kansas City.

State Amassing Big Future Debt, Spending Too Much for Interest

By SEN. PAUL SIMON

It is increasingly clear that the state government will be operated on a deficit-financing basis until the people and political leaders face up to the real state needs for a state income tax. That is probably six to ten years off.

The Senate passed by a 39-4 vote (I was one of the four) a bill authorizing a statewide system of toll roads, and this will mean an eventual expenditure of $8 to $10 billion dollars for construction—financed by bonds, paid for by tolls.

Both police parties have announced an air and water pollution program, for which bonds will be issued and an expenditure will be made of approximately $1 billion over a period of years.

GC Optimists Hear About Food Industry

In all areas, the food industry in the United States today surpasses the combined economic output of the major steel and automobile industries, Granite City Optimists were told Thursday afternoon.

The speaker was John Dietrich, vice-president of General Grocery Co. of St. Louis, who said last year's total food business was in excess of $90 billion, computed from the initial production stage through retail sales.

Addressing the local service group at its weekly luncheon meeting in the YMCA, Dietrich pointed out a labor force of more than 20 million people are employed in the business of food production, processing and sales. He said the average annual food bill of an American family now amounts to $1600.

"The era of the cracker barrel store has gone forever," he added. "Today's modern supermarkets generally enclose between 20,000 and 35,000 square feet of floor space, as opposed to the 1000-square foot area of the old-style general store."

Application of new methods evolved from research and breeding is now producing livestock with more meat and less fat than ever before, resulting in improved meat cuts for the housewife, the speaker commented. Dietrich introduced Merl Strauss, General Grocery Co. meat merchandising manager, who accompanied him to the meeting. William Kozay, program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, who donated to the club a frozen turkey, later awarded as a prize to Herman B. Maeder. Wilbert Triesel conducted a brief business session and announced this week's speaker as Dr. Stanley F. Maer, a local optometrist.

Park Board Studies Insurance Revision

Granite City park board members are considering a plan to revise all insurance coverage maintained by the district into a package with new insurance to be purchased on a bid basis.

It is believed there will be a considerable savings in insurance premium costs. Authorization has been given for a review of all current policies to prepare for a call for bids.

The board also is conferring with school district officials and officers on a joint purchase of land for a school-park arrangement such as now is in use at the new Parkway school on Maryville road.

No specific tract has been designated. The park commissioners have set a flat rental fee of $100 for use of the new ice rink for social events by clubs and organizations.

Second Human Relations Workshop Opens at SIU-SW

The second section of a human relations workshop for teachers in elementary and high schools who work with disadvantaged children is starting today at Southern Illinois University—Southern campus. The third section will be held June 26-27.

Dr. John M. McBride of the Education Division of SIU-SW chairman of counselor education, opened the program today at Peck Classroom building and pointed out the purpose is to provide special techniques of reaching minority group children to develop the child for achieving his full potential in school and in society.

Dr. McBride, who formerly was with Union State & Refining Co.

here, pointed out the workshop sessions are co-sponsored by the Illinois Commission on Human Relations, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and the Governor's Committee on Literacy and Learning.

On Tuesday the group will make a field trip to East St. Louis, and the remaining sessions will be held at the university. The workshops are limited to 50 persons, and advanced registration is not required. Students can earn four quarter hours of graduate credit.

Now's the time to install... GAS HEAT

You'll be glad you did all winter long

With natural gas heat next winter, the thermostat does what it's told—automatically. You'll enjoy even heat . . . instead of the "too hot"—"too cold" kind you get with old-fashioned heating systems. And you don't have to sweat out a fuel delivery in the dead of winter.

It makes sense to convert to gas now in the warm weather when heating contractors have ample time.

Getting gas heat installed is simple and easy. Just call your heating contractor and he'll get the job done quickly.

P.S. 8 out of 10 new homes are heated with natural gas.

SIMPAC Acts to Back Program For Lake Park

A resolution calling upon Gov. Otto Kerner and Illinois legislators to give full support to the Horseshoe Lake park development program was approved Thursday night in a regular quarterly meeting of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission. The resolution called upon all members of SIMPAC to write to state officials urging their support of the program.

Commission members also adopted a resolution commending Henry D. Karandjeff, Granite City banker and chairman of the Illinois Horseshoe Lake Commission which developed the program, for the time and effort he has put into the project to keep it alive and the state legislation which is expected to result this summer in the first state expenditure for work on development of the lake area.

Karandjeff was principal speaker at the meeting held in Eberhardt's restaurant at Columbus. He outlined the past activities of the several Horseshoe Lake commissions that have been recommending development of the Horseshoe Lake area as a major state park since the first commission made its report in 1957.

Sought Park 50 Years
"People living within the immediate area of the lake have been endeavoring for over 50 years to establish a park to make use of the great potential of Horseshoe Lake for recreational purposes," Karandjeff told the meeting.

He related unsuccessful efforts to secure state funds in past years, pointing out that a $400,000 fund was recommended in 1957 by former Gov. William Stratton, but that nothing was done at that time. In 1961 the legislature voted funds but the bill was vetoed by Gov. Kerner because of a shortage of state funds.

Karandjeff described the current program under which a fund of $400,000 has been requested from the state. A bill providing the money has been passed by the House by a majority of 147 to 1, has been approved by Senate committee and is expected to be acted upon on the Senate floor within the next week, he said.

If the bill wins Senate approval and is signed by the governor, the money would be used to acquire about 1700 acres of land including 1500 acres of lake bottom. Karandjeff said the governor has indicated he favors the project.

Could Include Mounds
"The commission believes the ideal development of the area would be to connect the historic Cahokia Mounds and the present park there of 224 acres, together with approximately 520 acres now planned by the Department of Conservation, so that we will have a park of outstanding historical significance together with a lake comprising the largest natural lake within the state of Illinois," Karandjeff said.

Slides of the lake area and surrounding territory were shown by Charles McKinney, assistant
